

SHELTER TASMANIA – HOMELESSNESS 2023: THE FACTS

About homelessness in Tasmania

Homelessness affects people of all ages, and in all regions of Tasmania. With more people experiencing and at risk of homelessness, we need to reduce and eliminate homelessness in Tasmania

People can become homeless for many reasons including loss of income or employment; the lack of affordable housing; family breakdown and domestic violence; illness transition from care or custody; and mental health, gambling or substance issues.

For many people homelessness is temporary, and they can quickly recover and stabilise their situation. For others, finding and maintaining a safe affordable home is extremely difficult, and homelessness lasts much too long.

Less than one in ten people experiencing homelessness are sleeping rough. More people are staying temporarily with others - couch surfing; in crisis shelters; in precarious and substandard accommodation; with doubled up families in overcrowded dwellings or in cars.

More than 120,000 Tasmanians live below the poverty line. As housing costs rise, it is more difficult for Tasmanians earning low and moderate incomes to find affordable housing. The chronic shortage of affordable rental housing in Tasmania is a major cause of homelessness and a barrier to pathways out of homelessness.

Homelessness support in Tasmania

A network of shelters and specialist services across Tasmania support people experiencing homelessness and who are at risk of homelessness.

Social housing and crisis accommodation play a critical role in housing people experiencing homelessness, and support services help address issues that can lead to homelessness.

Support includes help to find emergency and long term housing; helping with issues like domestic violence, substance use, gambling or mental illness; counselling and legal advice; life skills, education and employment; as well as help with stabilising and maintaining existing tenancies.

Housing and homelessness support services can be accessed through Tasmania's Housing Connect service.

What is needed to end homelessness in Tasmania?

Homelessness in Tasmania will end when everyone has access to appropriate, affordable and secure housing, along with the support that some people need to stay housed. Housing ends homelessness.

Shelter Tas calls for national and state level actions, including:

- A target of 10% of all dwellings to be social and affordable housing
- A National Affordable Housing Strategy to increase the supply of affordable and social housing
- Increased investment in Tasmania's homelessness and crisis accommodation support
- Increased resources to ensure housing and support for Tasmania's young people at risk
- Raising the rates of government income support for low income households
- A Women's Housing Strategy to ensure safe homes for all women and their children

Shelter Tas' vision is for affordable, appropriate, safe and secure housing for all Tasmanians and an end to homelessness.
